Extract from His Opinion in the Case of Boris vs. Trott
On the whole, then, I am of opinion that the preservation of the act of Congress of 17th May, 1862, declaring the vote in 1861, is a part of the public trust, and that it is the duty of the courts to preserve it.
I have tried to make the presentation of this case by watching the faces and the play of those engaged in it. A successful company is hard to conceive of than the one which, under these circumstances, should be successful, and, understanding the business in hand, and a certain complete and undisturbed success in the movement of the case, I am of opinion that the resulting character of the case is of value to the members of the court, and to the public at large, and I am of opinion that the case is of value to the public at large, and to the members of the court, and to the public at large.
Most of the company at play look beautifully conscious of the situation, and are simply intent upon the game, each man watching his play, and understanding the game, and with a professional knowledge of the game, and a feeling that it is the duty of the court to preserve the act of Congress of 17th May, 1862, and that the preservation of the act of Congress of 17th May, 1862, is a part of the public trust, and that it is the duty of the courts to preserve it.
The possibility of success is the duty of the court, and the duty of the court is to preserve the act of Congress of 17th May, 1862, and that the preservation of the act of Congress of 17th May, 1862, is a part of the public trust, and that it is the duty of the courts to preserve it.

Sketch of Senator Jim Lane.
Albert D. Richardson's "Beyond the Missis-

A match game of Base Ball will come off today, weather permitting, between the Seneca of O. City and the Independents of Titusville. The game will be called at 3 p. m.

Shank, opposite the Bush House, is in daily receipt of oysters per express, direct from New York and Baltimore. He intends to make a speciality in this line during the ensuing season, and the public may rely upon finding a prime article there at all times.

The materials of the Holladayburg Leader, formerly published by John H. Keady, Esq., are to be removed to Williamstown, by Dr. J. P.

Thompson, and the publication of the Temperance Indicator commenced.

We are informed that Mr. Fred A. Howe and others of Meadville, have bought of Col.

Knapp, his plantation in Edgecumbe District,

North Carolina, together with all the stock, personal property and growing crops. Consideration $30,000. They take possession immediately.

A small unoccupied dwelling house belonging to Richard Farrington, in Rome township, was burned on Thursday night. A vagrant had been seen loitering about the premises in the evening, and is supposed to have been the incendiary. He was arrested yesterday upon a warrant issued by Justice Bates, and upon examination, discharged.

On Tuesday night, the 10th inst., the dwelling of Mrs. Joseph Wald, of West Fallowfield township, was destroyed by fire, together with all the contents. The milk-house was also burnt and quite a large quantity of grain. The family barely escaped with their lives, saving only the night clothes as $125 in money. With other articles consumed was $125 in money.

No insurance.

An exchange, in speaking of the magical stratagem of a hand-organ, says: "When he played Old Dog Tray, we noticed eleven pigs sitting in front of the machine on their haunches, brushing away the tears from their eyes with their fore paws." The same thing during the same time under our sunset window yesterday. There was a perfect freckle of unweaned grins.

A little daughter of John Young, master mechanic on the Erie and Erie Railroad, was accidentally shot to Erie on Thursday, while playing in the garden. No one in the vicinity heard the report of the fatal discharge, and all inquiries as to who was to blame, failed to elicit the information. From the direction the ball took, it was evident that it was shot from a long distance, and with its force spent in carrying it. R. R. Guy, Sheriff of Venango county, on Monday evening last, continued to the Western Penitentiary, at Allegheny, the following named individuals, convicted at the last term of the Venango County Court: Patrick Sullivan, assault and battery with intent to commit rape, four years and six months; Stephen E. Jones, Patrick Barnes and John Clark, horse stealing, three years and six months; George McBride, three years and six months; and Thomas Shaw, John Johnson, Andrew Hinkley and Peter Schuch, each one year. Venango furnishes her quota every term of Court to the Penitentiary. The Sheriff states that he has twenty-eight prisoners still confined in the county jail—some under sentence for minor offenses, and others awaiting their trial at the next term.

HARVARD PICNIC AND BALL.—The annual picnic and ball of Titusville Lodge I. O. O. F., will take place on Monday next. The picnic will be held at Abbott's Grove in the afternoon, and the Harvard Society will march in procession to the grounds, preceded by Brown's Cornet Band and accompanied by their guests from abroad. A large number of persons are expected from Corry and other points. The grounds will be fitted up with refreshment tables, and there will be gymnastic exercises by the Turnverein and singing by the strength of the company. In the evening there will be a grand ball at Corvath Hall. The price of tickets is fixed at one dollar per couple, and of course the ball will be a success. The German never do anything by halves, and a lively time may be expected at this celebration.

surance Companies operating in the United Report of the Committee Appointed to Examine Dr. W. C. Tweddle's Process of Manufacturing Petroleum Oil.

We, the undersigned, a Committee appointed report upon the efficiency and practicability of Dr. W. C. Tweddle's process of refining petroleum, assembled at the Eclipse Bakery, Monday afternoon, September 10th, thoroughly examined the apparatus and examined the oil produced by it.

At 5:30 p. m. crude oil 45 deg. gravity, was introduced into the apparatus and steam turned on.

In four minutes the refined oil made its appearance, and in seven minutes was running a cop-ious stream.

About fifty barrels was introduced by 3:30 o'clock and at 7 o'clock p. m., or five hours later, 74 degrees of refined oil was produced—and 23 degrees of lubricating oil.

The simplicity of the apparatus, and the thorough manner in which the work is performed is remarkable. No unpleasant odor or dirt is apparent; and the oil produced is superior in quality, to any that have hitherto come under our observation. We examined several hundred barrels which had passed inspection "prima maris" and found that a fire test of 150 deg. to 170 deg. Fahrenheit.

The apparatus and process is in every respect superior to that in ordinary use, and is everything that Dr. Tweddle claims for it, and we have no doubt but that when the whole apparatus is completed the results will far exceed those already attained.

The lubricating oil produced is a superior article, and will stand a long and severe test, and its value will fully cover all cost of producing the refined oil.

As no acids, alkalis, or chemicals are used, in this process the wear and destruction of apparatus is reduced to a minimum.
